Accrediting organizations serve as guardians of educational quality and integrity. Accreditation, as defined by Webster, entails endorsing an institution with trust and confidence, vouching for its credibility, and providing it with formal recognition. It is important to note that accrediting bodies differ in their focus and areas of expertise.

Covenant University is accredited by Transworld Accrediting Commission International (TACI) located in Jacksonville, Florida, USA. TACI is a federally recognized, non-profit, professional church educational organization dedicated to ensuring the quality and facilitating the improvement of the institutions they accredit. This is achieved by establishing a testament to their performance and integrity. TACI's primary objective is to promote quality education in private schools, colleges, and theological seminaries. The organization operates independently of any government affiliation.

A degree encompasses the major subject area associated with it. Students and prospective students must be aware that credits earned in one program may not necessarily be transferable to another type of program. The decision to accept transferred credits rests solely with the receiving institution's main campus.

The job market is highly competitive, with most fields requiring specialized training. Graduates may encounter difficulties obtaining employment in fields for which they lack the appropriate certification.

By signing this form, I acknowledge that I have received the Student College Catalog and understand the nature of the degree for which I am applying. I also recognize that neither TACI nor Covenant University including its local extension campuses located in various places around the world, are responsible for my employment aspirations.

I am aware that Covenant University, with its Main Campus in Hudson, Florida, USA, and its local extension campuses worldwide, is primarily a religious institution. Consequently, there is no guarantee that credits earned at this university will be accepted by secular or state-run programs.
